FEATURED RELEASE

Wonders of Life

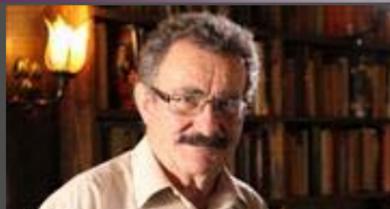

This beautiful and definitive series reveals how a few fundamental laws - light, gravity, time, matter and energy - gave birth to the most complex, diverse and unique force in the universe - life.

NEW PROGRAMMING

Insect Dissection

Delve inside the anatomy of bugs as this fascinating investigation reveals how insects have evolved to survive – and how discoveries made in insect labs are inspiring technology that will transform the world.

Child of our Time 2013

This 20-year experiment returns to reflect on the most important unit of all – the family. The programmes bring the families' stories up to date. The age of 13 marks a time of significant change: the teenage years.

The Industrial Revolution

This programme explores how a unique international position allowed 19th century Britain to become the richest, most powerful nation on earth and to set in motion the changes that soon swept over the planet.

Genius of Inventions

The greatest inventions have the power to transform the world and the lives of us all. In this series, Michael Mosley and team explore the inventions that made the world around us.

Horizon: Age of Big Data

Horizon finds out how scientists are using technology and innovation to search data. From the police department who are using an algorithm to predict where crime will strike next, to a mobile phone app that knows that you are unwell before you do.

Israel: Facing the Future

Facing the Future: Charged with strong emotions, this film offers an honest portrait of a society that is changing, as the world changes even faster around it.
